Do you have some or little experience with front-end development?

We're looking for an intern to join our software developers in creating our new, digital platform. The team consists of a project manager, an architect and two developers. You will be on-premise with the team throughout the internship.

The platform will be built in Molecular (microservices) and written mainly in JavaScript, Node.js, CSS3, HTML5. However, we know that it takes (a lot of) working hours to reach the expert level. We don't expect you to be an expert now - but hopefully, you'll gain a lot of experience along the way.

We're looking for an intern who would love to work for us as a student/full-time employee after the internship, and continue the development of the MVP and as well handle some of the daily operations. We're a young company, who went live in January 2018. We operate on the freelance market where we match freelancers & consultants with our clients. Your contribution will be right in the centre of our next move on the journey!

We would love to onboard you in August/September for any given length of the internship. We have scheduled interviews to July, but it will be possible in August as well.

We're right next to Østerport St in historic, beautiful settings. Besides the software development team, we're 7 colleagues within recruitment, service and sales.

We look forward to hearing from you! :-)
